ABOUT ME

I am a 9th semester student, majoring in mathematics at Gadjah Mada University. I can read spreadsheets and data easily. I am used to the challenge of translating data into easy-to-understand information. I have experience as a business development so that it makes me accustomed to analyzing business problems. Apart from collecting data, I also use it to tell stories. I don't just collect information. As a data storyteller, I harness the power of data and weave it into compelling 'stories' that help companies solve problems, improve performance, and plan their next steps.
